Paratroopers Cut Off In Vicious Onslaught

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese regulars surrounded a blast U.S. paratrooper battalion on a hill near the Cambodian border. The fighting perhaps the most vicious yet in the highlands today and with heavy tanks and mortar attacks apparently inflicted heavy casualties. An American relief force reached the scene at dusk, clotted blows against the fifth. The battalion of the U.S. 173rd and sixth targets to come off the Airborne Brigade was cut off Pentagon's restricted list in four for 24 hours before the reinforcements arrived to break and a large yard near Hanoi the Communist attack and bring. The U.S. Command announced dead and wounded. Heavy rained the loss of four planes, enemy ground fire kept rescue bringing the total number of losses over the North to 749 air. Associated Press correspondent John Lenge reported from six crewmen, all of whom are Dak To, about 15 miles from the missing. In the fighting 14 miles south of Dak To, 40 paratroopers side the U.S. perimeter were killed Sunday.

Briton From Hong Kong Fees Chinese Captors

HONG KONG (AP) — British Police Inspector F. G. Knight said today he escaped after 35 days' captivity in Red China by lifting a bolt on the inside of his window and slipping out while his two guards were away. Knight said he could have escaped that way any day but decided to "let the proper authorities try to get me out first." He said one of the guards at the "hostel" where he was held in the Chinese border village of Shum Chun was taking a shower and the other was talking on the telephone. After slipping out the window, he said he walked possibly 25 miles in a circuitous route to the Shum Chun River, five miles away from the hostel. He hid in a ditch for 45 minutes until a sentry walked away and then swam across to Hong Kong, he said. He was picked up today by a British military truck. Knight said he was kidnapped from Hong Kong accidentally by farmers who had not meant to push him across the border. He said he was well treated, and was told he would be released eventually. Knight's abduction resulted in a formal British protest to Peking and the partial closing of the border by British authorities.

Viet Cong Using Cambodia

Phnom Penh have knowledge of Viet Cong forces in Cambodia. Many contend the number is far greater than anything suspected by Prince Sihanouk. A fenced, well guarded, maximum security camp is reported to have been installed long ago along the border in Mondulkiri Province opposite the lower reaches of the Vietnamese highlands. Other bivouac and transit areas are reported in Mondulkiri and adjoining Ratanak Kiri provinces where his government has little control anyway. In the southern provinces bordering Vietnam on the Mekong Delta, his orders to stop Viet Cong infiltrators have been relatively effective. Prince Sihanouk has said several times recently that his support to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, he has always insisted his support did not extend to the military field. Some competent authorities in Phnom Penh contend that the prince does not know the extent to which his territory is being used by the Viet Cong. Others say the prince has intentionally ignored Viet Cong activity, particularly in the jungled northern provinces where his government has little control anyway. In the southern provinces bordering Vietnam on the Mekong Delta, his orders to stop Viet Cong infiltrators have been relatively effective.

Reaction Varied to Pound Devaluation

isters decided in Paris Sunday night to support the devalued pound with contributions to a $1.4 billion loan from the International Monetary Fund loan. But they could not agree on the $1.6 billion loan the British want from 10 industrial countries, including the United States and France. Wilson told his television audience his government had been battling the national trade deficit since it took over from the Conservatives in 1964. Success was in sight, he said, until the pound suffered smart setbacks from the Mideast war, foreign speculators, the Suez Canal closing, and dock and shipping strikes. Desmond Donnelly, a right-wing Laborite, called the handling of Britain's fiscal crisis an example of incompetence, indecision and misjudgment. There was angry dissent from the Labor left, too, as Wilson's government announced that cutbacks in public spending would logically accompany devaluations from going abroad to get higher interest rates. President Johnson tried to stop any notion that the United States would devalue the dollar. He reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to buy and sell gold at the existing price of $35 an ounce. Only by raising the price could he devalue the dollar. French Finance Minister Michel Debre said the devaluation had not changed France's position on the British effort to enter the Common Market. The about toward U.S. policy in French have been blocking that at every turn. President Charles de Gaulle especially resents the pound's role as an international reserve currency. The effect of devaluation on Britain's bid was to be dis-cussed today in a Common Market conference in Brussels. Common Market finance min-

Packers Hand 49ers Their First Shutout in 6 Years

Bratkowski Directs Club To Only TD in 13-0 Win; Starr and Caffey Injured

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Battle-scarred Ray Nitschke ambled across the green-carpeted dressing room, threw an arm around the brawny shoulders of Ben Wilson and whispered an accolade in the Packer fullback's ear.

Almost in the same motion, Wilson clapped Nitschke on the back in reciprocal sincerity and another injury to quarterback declared. "You were great, Bart Starr, responded with sufficient vigor to forge a second quarter touchdown and two field goals — more than enough to tattered on to the shower, but it eloquently capsuled what had just transpired as the world champions throttled the invariably fractious 49ers, 13-0, in a bruising, bone-jarring struggle at Lambeau Field.

Competent Workman

The offense, with Zeke Bratkowski once again, a cool, competent workman following back to replace injured all-pro linebacker LeeRoy Caffey in the first quarter, collaborated with crunching enthusiasm, saddling the customarily potent 49ers with their first shutout since 1961.

The second whitewash effort of the season for the Packers, who earlier had blanked Atlanta's Falcons, 23-0, in Milwaukee, it padded the Packers' record to 7-1 and maintained their 2½ game bulge in the National Football League's Central Division race heading into next Sunday's showdown with the resurgent Bears in Chicago.

Tackled by Hindman

Bratkowski, summoned early in the second quarter when Starr was left reeling by a blow to his head as he was tackled by San Francisco's Stan Hindman, saw his first pass intercepted by the invaders' Jim Johnson two plays later.

But he rebounded with a vengeance the next time the Packers acquired possession, driving them 80 yards in 9 plays to their lone touchdown, which bloomed into a 10-0 lead following Don Chandler's conversion just 26 seconds before the first half ended.

Chandler earlier had erected a 3-0 lead, rifling a 41-yard field goal home through the heart of a stout crosswind at 5:05 of the first quarter, capping the Pack's initial drive following the opening kickoff.

The balding Oklahoman, who now has connected on 13 of 20 attempts (the saw a 39-yard attempt float to the right of the uprights in the third quarter, later wrapped up the champions' production with a 26-yard boot at 14:22 of the third quarter.

The Packers had one other major opportunity, following their longest push of the afternoon, but it expired when Starr was stopped standing up at the 49er 3-yard line on a bootleg-type maneuver outside right guard. It blunted an 82-yard drive which had carried the Packers to the San Francisco 1.

Has Its Problems

San Francisco, meanwhile, slanting to the left and then was having its problems with the Packers' miserly defenders. Unable to get past the Packer 27 yard line for the first three quarters, the California had to settle for three unsuccessful field goal attempts by Tommy Davis.

The natives grew a trifle restless in the fourth quarter as the 49ers twice threatened, but man just came a lot faster than the Packers' miserly defenders. ## Concannon Leads Surprising Bears Past Cards, 30-3

Throws 3 Long Touchdown Passes, Runs for Score

BY JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Concannon nodded toward Larry Rakestraw with a wink and said "he made me a little angry."

Rakestraw shot back and said "when you're No. 2, you have to try a little harder."

Concannon and Rakestraw have been the main actors in two of the whackiest weeks of quarterbacking in Chicago Bear football history.

A week ago, Concannon was knocked dizzy by the New York Giants and Rakestraw stepped in to lead a 34-7 victory by firing drive on a six-yard run to go chick, who also tallied on a five-yard run.

Early in the second quarter, St. Louis gained field position on a punt by Chuck Latourette second quarter when Gary Concannon, who had thrown rookie Dan Abramovitz and only one touchdown pass all season, let go with a long pitch trail, 10-7.

which bounced off the hands of Pat Fischer and Larry Wilson of a 44-yard pass interference penalty, directed the Eagles 67 yards in four plays with Woodeschek crashing over from the Midway in the period, Curtis Gentry made the first of his three interceptions. After the Cardinals were hit with two third period on a 13-yard TD penalties, Concannon threw his 51-yard touchdown pass to rookie Bob Jones, a 22-year-old King Hill, making his first appearance of the season, replaced Snead and threw 15 yards to Izzy Lang in the final quarter for the Eagles' final touchdown.

The next time the Bears got in the ball, Concannon hit Gordon with his 67-yard touchdown drive on a six-yard run to go chick, who also tallied on a five-yard run.

Concannon finished up with 11 completions in 24 attempts for 336 yards. The tenacious Bear defense helped matters by intercepting seven St. Louis passes and grabbing two fumbles.

Eagles Riddle Saints Behind Snead, 48-21

Norm Throws Four Scoring Passes; Defeat Avenged

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Norm Snead completed 19 of 27 passes for 309 yards and four touchdowns Sunday as the Philadelphia Eagles reversed their most humiliating 1967 defeat with a 48-21 victory over the New Orleans Saints in a National Football League game.

Only two weeks ago, the Saints stunned the Eagles in New Orleans 31-24 for the first year team's initial NFL triumph. Sunday's 48 points was the Eagles' top offensive output since they ran up 49 against New York in 1959.

Sam Baker started the campaign in the first period with a 21-yard field goal after New Orleans' John Gillum allowed a punt to skip through his hands and the Eagles recovered on the Saints' 18.

3 TD Passes Snead took over in the second period, firing TD passes of 10 yards to Ben Hawkins, 35 to Jim Kelly, and 15 to Tom Woodes.

Following Bakken's field goal, the Bears marched 70 yards with Concannon capping the Kelly, and 15 to Tom Woodes. Concannon, who had thrown rookie Dan Abramovitz and only one touchdown pass all season, let go with a long pitch trail, 10-7.

Balanced Colt Attack Drubs Detroit 41-7

Baltimore Keeps 1-Game Lead in Coastal Division

By GEORGE BOWEN

Associated Press Sports Writer BALTIMORE (AP) — The undefeated Baltimore Colts meshed the running of Tom Matte and Tony Lorick with the passing of John Unitas Sunday for a methodical 41-7 rout of the Detroit Lions in a National Football League game.

It was the eighth victory for the only team without a defeat in professional football this season and kept the Colts a game ahead of Los Angeles in the league's Coastal Division. Baltimore has been tied twice, once by the Rams.

In a rare display of offensive balance between running and passing, the Colts ran up a 27-0 lead before Unitas threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to substitute Alex Hawkins.

Play Bench

Most of the first stringers then retired with more than 13 minutes remaining in the game. Second string quarterback Jim Ward of the Colts then pitched a 20-yard scoring strike to Willie Richardson to make it 41-0 before the Lions made a touchdown against the remnants of the Baltimore bench.

The Colts scored a touchdown before its offense even had the ball when defensive back Jerry Logan returned a punt 43 yards for a touchdown.

Tom Matte, who rolled for a net gain of 110 yards with 17 carries tallied a pair of touchdowns in the second quarter on slashes off tackle of two yards.

Tony Lorick, who carried 15 times for 50 yards, was rewarded with a touchdown on a one-yard run in the third period. Although the Colts gained slightly more yardage running than passing—for a change—Unitas was still busy and effective. He completed 12 of 21 for 157 yards.

Late 49er Threat Has Vince Second - Guessing Himself

Second-Period Decision to Go For TD Loomed Large Later

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — As the Lambeau Field scoreboard clock blinked down toward the 6:00 mark Sunday afternoon, the Green Bay Packers held a 13-0 lead and were undoubtedly thinking of the one step closer they were coming to the Central Division championship of the Western Conference of the National Football League.

In the stands, 50,861 icicles were thinking how pleasant it would be to thaw out soon.

But in the San Francisco 49ers' huddle, John Brodie was thinking only of getting a touchdown... and an eventual win... for his team.

And this left Packer Coach Vince Lombardi standing nervously on the sideline thinking back to the second quarter when his team was foiled on a fourth-and-1 touchdown bid.

15 Yards to Go Brodie fired 15-yards to John Crow for a first down at the Packer 15 with 6:43 left to play. Fifteen yards for a touchdown. Then the kickoff... perhaps an outside kick... and there would still be plenty of time for the 49ers to score again and steal a 14-13 victory from the Packers.

Shades of Baltimore? But if the Packers had gone for the field goal back there in the second quarter, even two touchdowns in those final six minutes wouldn't have been enough for the 49ers.

I was really second guessing myself toward the end of the game... that we didn't go for the three points... a still nervous coach declared later while trying to unwind in the warm comfort of his dressing room office.

But as it turned out, Brodie failed in his mission. After the big pass to Crow, he fired incomplete into the end zone. Gary Lewis punched out four yards but Brodie then missed Dave Parks in the end zone. And on fourth down, he aimed again for Parks but Bob Jeter knocked the ball away and the importance of Lombardi's decision to go for the TD in the second period dissolved.

But it was not easy for Lombardi (the noted conservative) who turned a bit out of character in trying for the (touchdown) to forget it.

Hutson Enters Former Packer great Don Hutson entered the office and the Packer coach greeted him enthusiastically, then jumped out of his chair and repeated with considerable arm waving and volume, "I was really second guessing myself at the end, Don."

Moments earlier, however, he had explained his decision. "We only had a half a yard... maybe a foot... to go," he said, appending, "also for the angle for the field goal was not going to be the best."

The actual try for the foot fizzled badly, marking a disappointing end to a drive that had originated on the Packer 17-yard line. Quarterback Bart Starr faked a handoff to Ben Wilson, slanting to the left and then was having its problems with the Packers' miserly defenders.

Unable to get past the Packer 27 yard line for the first three quarters, the California had to settle for three unsuccessful field goal attempts by Tommy Davis.

The natives grew a trifle restless in the fourth quarter as the 49ers twice threatened, but man just came a lot faster than the Packers' miserly defenders. ## Cowboys' Lead In Division Cut To Two Games

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen passed for four touchdowns Sunday and led Washington to a 27-20 National Football League upset of rallying Dallas Sunday.

Washington rushed out to a 27-6 margin over the favored Cowboys before Dallas started back behind Craig Morton, who took over at quarterback for starter Don Meredith.

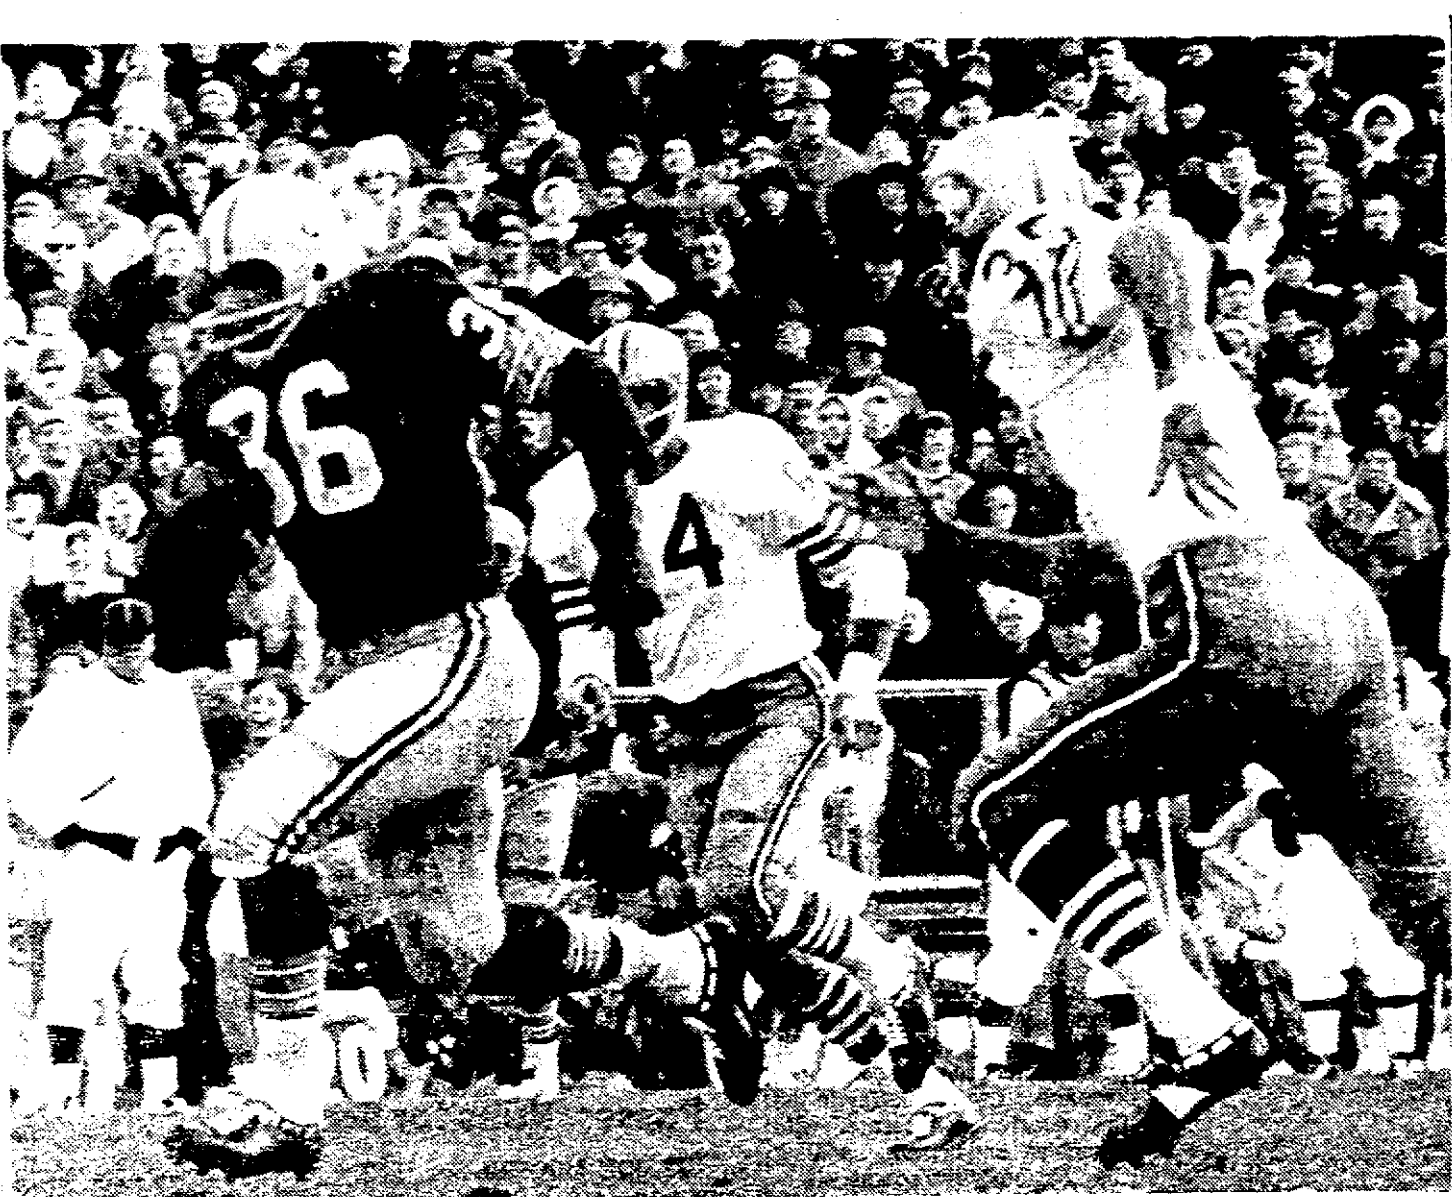

He passed for two touchdowns and had a capacity crowd of 75,553 at the Cotton Bowl roaring as he had the Cowboys on the move when time ran out.

The loss cut the Dallas lead in the Capitol Division of the NFL to two games with four to play.

But Morton was intercepted with only 1:13 left in the game. The Cowboys, using their three time outs, got possession again in the final seconds, but again could not assemble a scoring drive.

Minnear Scores Twice Fill-In Fullback Leads Giants to 28-20 Win Over Inept Steelers

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Randy Minnear usually sees the New York Giants only on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Then he takes off for Mount Vernon, N.Y., in the suburbs to play Saturday night with the Westchester Bulls of the Atlantic Coast Football League, a farm club.

Minnear graduated to the big club a week ago Friday when Allen Jacobs was injured. It figured to be just an insurance move. A week ago Sunday he ran back punts and played a few minutes after the game was lost to the Bears.

But Sunday was the day when Minnear's dreams came true. Due to an injury to Tucker Frederickson, who was lost for the season because of torn ligaments in his right knee and his second knee surgery in Indianapolis, most of all Tucker.

Minnear scored two touchdowns for the Giants in their 28-20 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. He caught a six-yard pass from scrambling Fran Tarkenton and also ran home a two-game losing streak, put from the one.

"He's no fly boy," said Coach in contention in the Century Di-Allie Sherman. "But he has vision of the Eastern Confer- gence balance, catches the foot- ence. shortly triggered Chandler's 41-yard field goal.

Ben, who amassed 80 yards in 13 thrusts to rank just behind sophomore Donny Anderson (89 in 19) for the afternoon, later confided, "It was a draw play. I don't know what happened — all of a sudden I found myself catch following Carroll Dale down the field in the open it broke clean. Nobody laid a hand on me."

Matches Longest Run

The 224-pound fullback, jocularly known as "Old Mule," to some of his teammates, matched the team's longest run from scrimmage of the season — a 40-yard flight from punt formation by Anderson against the Bears back on Sept. 24 — with that sortie.

"That," he chuckled, "is pretty good for me."

The Pack subsequently maneuvered one more first down, but the 49ers' mountaineer Roland of passes, too, that I thought I should have had."

Seek to Pad Lead

Largely as the result of a 24-yard Bratkowski pitch to Dowler, the Packers threatened to pad that 10-0 lead midway through the third quarter, but did a helluva job punting under those conditions."

The Packers spent the rest of the first quarter feeding off the 49ers, who barged to the Packer 26 following the succeeding kickoff. The defense then called a halt. Lionel Aldridge batting down a Brodie pass at the line of scrimmage. Dave Robinson felling John David Crow for a 1-yard loss and Willie Wood breaking up a third down pass to force Davis' first field goal attempt. This one, from the 34, veered to the left of the uprights.

San Francisco shortly was back knocking at the door as Starr was swarmed under on the Packer 3, which gave the 49ers excellent field position at the Green Bay 44 following an Anderson punt.

Tips Brodie Pass

This time, Crutcher tipped a Brodie pass to the turf, then stopped Brodie for 3 yards on third down, triggering a 43-yard Davis field goal attempt. This one, lofted at 12:27, also was wide to the left.

Early in the second quarter, the Packers launched that ill-fated 82-yard drive, punctuated by a 17-yard run by Wilson, a 29-yard Starr pass to Anderson and a 21-yard pitch to Ben, the last of which carried to the San Francisco 6.

Anderson hit left guard for 3 and right tackle for 2, reaching the 1 where he was jolted to an upright stop by San Francisco linebacker Ed Beard. Andy stormed right tackle a second time and was checked for no gain, after which Starr was met by 49er Dave Wilcox as he slanted outside right guard and felled for a 2-yard loss.

Starr was injured the next time the Bays acquired possession, after which Johnson intercepted Bratkowski's first pass and returned it 30 yards to the Packer 48.

Again in position, the 49ers moved to the 31—largely by dint of a 15-yard Brodie run — before Aldridge toppled the 49er quarterback after 6 yards in a schools before today but there third-and-10 situation to force another Davis field goal attempt. This one, from the 38, the Tide would be asked to play was low and bounced into the end zone.

Three Strikes

Only 3:03 remaining in the first half as the Packers took over at their own 20, but they made the most of it. Escorting day that Alabama was trying to them the distance in nine plays, impress bowl representatives in Bratkowski pitched three strikes a 17-0 victory over South Carolina, the last of which bore the Cotton Bowl was the only Pack to the 49er 1.

Christiansen Mystified by Scoring Failure

"We moved the ball very well. We just didn't put it in there. That's been our trouble all year. It would have been no contest if we had gotten a touchdown on that first drive."

That drive ended in a 41-yard field goal by Don Chandler after the Packers had marched from their own 20 to the San Francisco 21. But on third and five, Starr was dropped for a 13-yard loss by pesky Roland Lakes.

The Packer offense rolled up the last two games for Andy, but 297 yards for the day, 204 of them in the first half. Anderson ran for 89 yards and caught two passes for 35 more, prompting Lombardi to state, "Anderson played very, very well. So did Brodie's stubborn defense had something to do with the 49ers' inability to score but insisted, "It was a combination of us and them. We respect them as the best defense in the league but that doesn't mean we didn't expect to score on them."

Much the Same

In the 49er dressing room, the lament was much the same. "The 49ers were halted in the final practices the past week, conceding eight or 10 times in a half minute of play after reaching the Packer seven. On fourth row from outside the 40 one day, being shut out. They had managed only 76 yards in the first half but claimed 232 in the second half.

"I don't know what's the matter with our offense," Coach Jack Christiansen said. "We can't seem to come up with the big play. Our defense played a great game. It deserved something more than it got."

Brodie, who attempted 48 passes and completed 20 of them in trying to ignite some 49er fireworks, added, "It wasn't a question of not moving the ball. It was a question of getting it across the goal. We just didn't take advantage of the opportunities to score. I don't have any answers. I just don't know."

Christiansen indicated that Brodie may have just one more game to come up with the answers. Earlier in the week, he had said that Brodie will have two more games to get the 49ers on the right track. Asked if that still stood, the fiery coach said it did. The 49ers meet Baltimore this week.

Brodie did concede that the Packers' stubborn defense had something to do with the 49ers' inability to score but insisted, "It was a combination of us and them. We respect them as the best defense in the league but that doesn't mean we didn't expect to score on them."

Besides that foiled drive over these misfires, pointing out the 6-minute mark, the that Davis had enjoyed his best serious. Jim Houston intercepted Ron Vanderkelen's pass on the fourth row from outside the 40 one day,

Fights Spice Final Minutes

By LOU MIO

CLEVELAND (AP) — It really wasn't much of a game until the last 3½ minutes.

Cleveland trailed by three points and Minnesota had the ball in the Brown's territory. All they had to do was run out the clock. The Vikings fumbled. Cleveland recovered and 63,431 partly frozen fans perked up.

Then:

—Leroy Kelly scored with 28 seconds left for a 14-10 victory Sunday. (He scored the other touchdown earlier).

—Two fights started and two Browns were kicked out of the game.

down. Willie Wood intercepted a pass to preserve the shutout.

Shakes Head

And the 49ers also missed on three field goal opportunities by the usually reliable Tommy Davis. Recognized as one of the NFL's premier placement artists, Davis entered the game with eight successes in 17 tries. But Sunday he missed from the 34, 43 and 33, the latter resembling a shanked 9-iron shot.

Christiansen shook his head started There was some pushing and shoving, but nothing too serious. Jim Houston intercepted Ron Vanderkelen's pass on the fourth row from outside the 40 one day,

Browns Scramble Past Vikings, 14-10

—Cleveland moved into first fight got under way. The interception was nullified.

Johnson and Browns' defensive captain, Paul Wiggins were both ejected. "One of the Vikings hit Walter square in the back," Wiggins said. "It was a blow that could have broken the back of a man 50 pounds lighter." Johnson, a wrestler off season, weighs 270 pounds.

Johnson added, "I connected with a couple of punches."

Browns' Coach Blanton Collier said it was "a tough, nasty football game."

Minnesota led 10-7 at halftime. Osborn went four yards in the first quarter after Carl Ward fumbled Bobby Walden's punt at the Cleveland 13-yard line. Fred Cox added a 20-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Kelly scored from the one yard line to make it 10-7 after Dale Hackbart was called for interference on Gary Collins in the end zone, giving Cleveland the ball at the one.

The Browns led the Century Division with a 6-4 record. St. Louis lost to the Chicago Bears, 30-3, and trail the Browns with a 5-4-1 mark.

Three Lincoln Regulars Are Suspended

State high school basketball champion Milwaukee Lincoln, with four players, including three starters, on the bench, opened its 1967 season Saturday night the same way it began its last campaign—with a loss.

Three members of Lincoln's title team from last season, suspended for disciplinary reasons, a fourth player also was suspended.

The Comets fell 81-56 to Eau Claire Memorial which got revenge as well as a victory. Memorial lost state championship games to Lincoln in 1962 and 1965.

The Milwaukee school opened its season last year with a loss to Monroe. Then the Comets won 25 games in a row and the state crown.

In Saturday night's game, Memorial had five men scoring in double figures and held a 38-19 halftime lead.

Sugar Bowl to Pit Wyoming Against LSU

Cowboys Only Major College Team With Perfect Record

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Wyoming, the nation's only major college football team with a perfect record, and Louisiana State's "Toeless Tigers" will play in the Sugar Bowl here New Year's Day.

The two teams officially get their invitations today from the Sugar Bowl.

It will mark the second straight year that the Sugar Bowl has landed an unbeaten, untied team—something no other bowl has had since the 1953 season. Alabama was 10-0 when it played Nebraska here last Jan. 2.

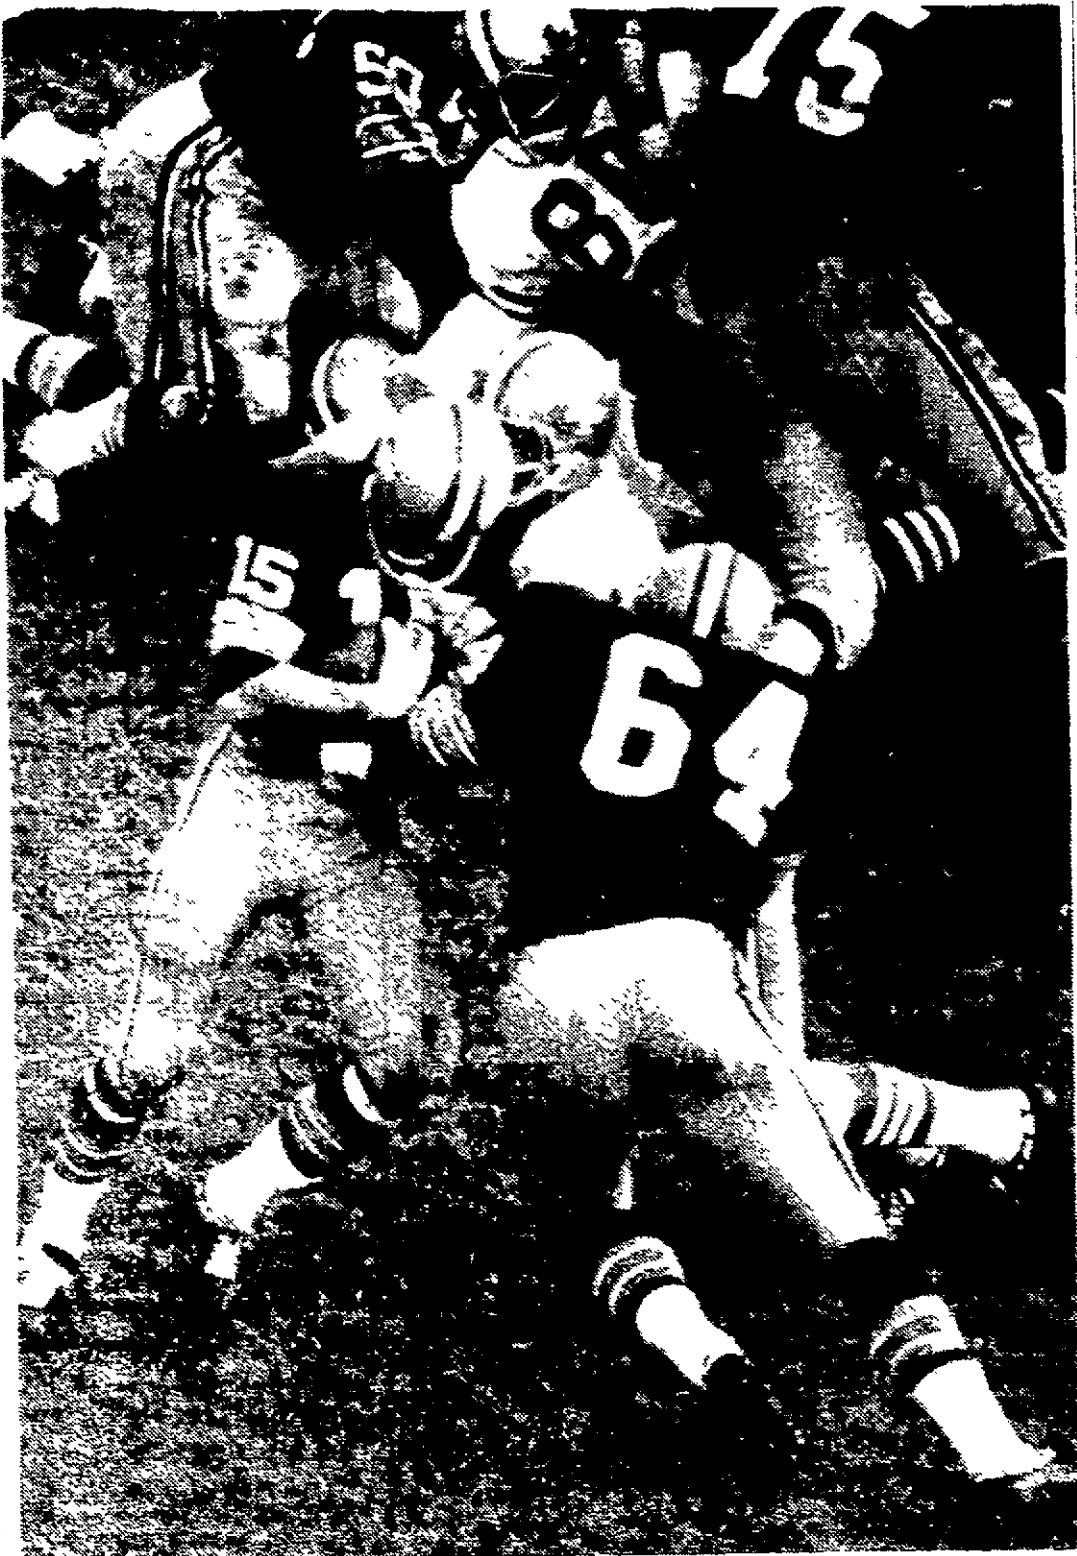

Wyoming's Cowboys finished their season Saturday night with a 21-19 victory over Texas-El Paso.

The Cowboys rank sixth in the Associated Press Top Ten poll.

LSU will be making its eighth trip to the Sugar Bowl—more appearances in the New Orleans postseason game than any other college. The Tigers take a 5-3-1 record into the final game Saturday night at Baton Rouge with old rival Tulane, which hasn't beaten LSU since 1948.

This year's team got the nickname "Toeless Tigers" after their three defeats and a tie game because of the kicking game.

LSU lost by two points to Miami, Fla., muffed a field goal try in the final minutes; and by three points to Tennessee, also because a field goal was missed at the end of the game. Missed extra points led to a 13-13 tie with Mississippi and a 7-6 loss to Alabama.

Green Bay Quarterback Bart Starr (15) is stopped for a second-quarter loss by San Francisco's Dave Wilcox as he tries to score on a fourth-and-1-for-2 touchdown play. Other Packers include Jerry Kramer (64), Forrest Gregg (75) and Bob Hyland (50). The Packers did score several other times, however, for a 13-0 win. (Post-Crescent News Service Photo)

Lost Day for Starr

Crutcher's Showing Makes Caffey Want To Recover in Hurry

GREEN BAY — Lee Roy Caffey has the locker stall right next to Tommy Crutcher's in the Green Bay Packers' Lambeau Field dressing room. Therefore, he couldn't help but notice the cluster of sportswriters gathered about Crutcher some minutes after the Days had dispatched the San Francisco 49ers, 13-0 Sunday.

"Now don't you guys go making a star out of him after just one game," Caffey piped up. But the lilt in his voice did not agree with the cold words. Caffey, forced out of the contest after only nine minutes of play with an injured ankle, was obviously happy that his locker neighbor had come up with a tremendous performance in his stead.

"I wasn't even missed. I think I better get well in a hurry, hadn't I?" Caffey continued. Then, in all seriousness, the right linebacker added, "he played a tremendous game."

That went only slightly farther through the most frustrating football season he's had with arch trouble on and off 1940.

since warming the University of Alabama bench throughout his senior year, insisted "I'm fine" when pressed for a report on his health.

"I just don't remember," he said of the incident that sent him reeling to the sidelines with almost seven minutes left in the first half.

Lombardi, however, said that Starr was just banged in the head and was rendered "woozy." Minutes after he left the game, Starr was escorted from the field to the dressing room by Dr. James Nellen, team physician, and Dominic Gentile, assistant trainer.

And while Lombardi also reported that Bart was okay after the game, Starr had difficulty in remembering much of what had transpired even before he was forced out. He described the day as "a lost afternoon."

Center Bob Hyland also had some recurring difficulty in the first half, jaunting in and out several times after being poked in the eye with a finger. "I was seeing double for about 10 and 45 minutes," he said, then chuckled. "It was kind of inconvenient."

San Francisco tight end Bob Windsor also sported a swollen eye as the result of Willie Wood's finger poke, though he said it felt more like a fist. And Bears' Ken Willard, afflicted with arch trouble on and off 1940.

This was the first game played with the new electric blanket in operation at Lambeau Field. And the turf was a constant 43 degrees on each side of the field. But it was wet before the game and a helicopter had to be brought in to set up a fan that helped dry it off. Brodie's 48 pass attempts were six short of his team record of 54 in one game, set last year against the Washington's Davey O'Brien in 1940.

Rams Whip Atlanta, 31-3

ATLANTA (AP) — Los Angeles and trail only unbeaten Baltimore, surprised by a stubborn Atlanta defense for 45 minutes, scored two quick fourth-quarter touchdowns Sunday and rolled to a 31-3 National Football League victory over the Falcons.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel scored on a plunge and tossed a 57-yard touchdown pass to Bernie Casey in a three-minute spurt that sent the Rams to their seventh victory. They have lost once and been tied twice.

Gabriel scored two plays later and then threw the long scoring strike to Casey to clinch the triumph. Gabriel passed two yards to Dick Bass for the first Los Angeles touchdown after Jack Pardee returned an intercepted pass to the Atlanta 23.

The Rams added a final touchdown with four minutes left on a fake field goal with holder Ed Meador throwing an 18-yard strike to Billy Truax.

Final Round of Haig Golf Meet Delayed
RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Heavy rain postponed Sunday the final round of the Haig Scotch Golf Championship with the teams of Richard Martinez-Bob Lunn and Lee Trevino-Hewie Johnson tied for the lead with 13-under-par 205s after three rounds. The final round was reset for today.

THE MONSTER'S REPUTATION FOR BEING A ONE-LEGGED THING WAS WELL-ESTABLISHED.

Beauty, Brains, Heart— That's 'Roz' Russell

Everyone Likes Actress, Whose Sense
Of Humor Matches Her Acting Talents

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — You never hear anyone bad mouthing Rosalind Russell.

This is unusual because she is one of those rare women who have beauty, brains and a heart—and other human beings sometimes find it difficult to put up with anyone that gifted.

Rosalind Russell

An actress with a sense of humor as engaging as her dramatic talents, she seemed amused the other day when asked how she could explain her own enduring popularity.

"Well, if people like me," she said lightly, "it must be because I like people—all kinds of people. I come from a large family."

Star for 30 Years

As a slender somewhat tomboyish young girl back in her home town, Watertown, Conn., where her mother had been a schoolteacher and her father a well-known trial lawyer, Roz dreamed of a career on stage and screen.

Now at age 54, some 30 years a star, the list of her achievements is awesome.

She has made 48 films—the latest is "Universal's" "Rosie"—in which she played 20 different types of career women, ranging from a mother superior to a judge. Her memorable portrayals include those of "Sister Kenny" and "Auntie Mame."

Has 97 Awards

She has received 97 awards and citations including three nominations for an Oscar, and election by the Costume Designers Guild to its Hall of Fame of "all-time best dressed women."

Generous with both her time and money, Miss Russell has participated in some 75 civic and philanthropic activities.

Through it all she has avoided any taint of smugness or stuffiness. She is still frank, friendly, warm-hearted and merry of spirit.

Enjoys Laughter

"I really love to laugh," she said. "People don't laugh enough, and they should. After all, it takes so much more energy to be angry and oom things."

"My biggest problem is time, as it is with most anyone. That's Cecily Tyson does well as the for, more time to try everything."

To Roz life is symbolic with light.

"It isn't darkness, it is enlightenment. What goes with poverty and ignorance is darkness. What goes toward making life better is light."

Same as Mame's

"My philosophy can be summed up in one of the phrases Auntie Mame used: 'Life is a banquet, and most poor suckers are starving to death.'"

What do you feel is your own best quality, Roz?

"That I am myself. I suppose I don't try to be anyone else. It isn't always easy to be your-

McGraw lends strong support to this Man From U.N.C.L.E. episode as the rough and tough supervisor of the agency's survival school located on a distant island. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 11-9) — Rat Patrol departs from the desert to take on a new military role, a commando raid on the Island of Rhodes to rescue a British general's son, being held by the Germans. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7) — It's a bear up the old plot on The Lucy Show with old pro Frank McHugh making it all stand up. He plays a down-and-out bum taken in by Lucy and mistaken for an eccentric millionaire by Mr. Moorey. (C)

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7) — Every father in the TV audience will recognize tonight's Family Affair title, "You Like Buffy Better." It starts with Uncle Bill's simple happy task of taking Buffy to the ballet. (C)

9-10 (Channel 5) — This I Spy drama is almost a documentary on the preparations and facilities involved in a space shot. It was filmed at Downey and Santa Susanna space sites in California and uses several interesting segments including training capsules, the "clean" room and the loading of intricate rocket parts. The story focuses on Kelly and Robinson posing as tour guides and trying to break up an espionage ring. (C)

Her Dislikes

What infuriates me is indifference, and the general attitude of concealing. I also don't like people who use personal shyness as an excuse for not doing things. We're all shy, but we ought to give the other fellow a break. He may be shy.

"I also dislike tardiness. Your whole life can be changed by getting up half an hour early. That's why God gave us the period from 5 to 7 a.m.—so we could get up and beat the traffic."

Sammy Davis Dramatic on Thomas Hour

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channel 5) — Sammy Davis Jr. stars in high dramatic fashion on The Danny Thomas Hour's presentation of "The Enemy." He plays an Army non-com in Germany during the waning weeks of the war, who picks up and befriends another non-com. Tension mounts when word goes around that a highly trained Nazi infiltrator has wormed his way into their unit and indications point to Davis' new friend. In several tearing scenes Davis accuses his new friend of being the Nazi and also himself for bringing him into the unit. There are a few more soul-searching and violent events coming out of the situation which Davis gives their full dramatic due. Peter Brown and Henry Silva are featured. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — It's worth tuning to Gunsmoke to see Purnell Roberts in a role that many a good actor would ruin. He is a gunfighter and killer who has come to Dodge City to fill a $100 murder contract. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — Cowboy in Africa again uses a trite dramatization to point up a valid premise, the resistance of as it is with most anyone. That's Cecily Tyson does well as the young Negro teacher who went to Africa to start a school for the children of a Kenya tribe. (C)

7-8 (Channel 5) — Charles

Crisis in Health Care Called Close in U.S.

Commission Prescribes 50 Curatives

WASHINGTON, AP — A presidential commission warned today a national health crisis may "be upon us now or just around the corner."

Already, it said, the system of caring for America's health is in a state of crisis, with costs rising far faster than living expenses and gaps apparent in the quality and distribution of services.

The commission questioned whether the country is getting its money's worth from the increasing billions going into health care since there has been only a small gain in life expectancy. It suggested health might be improved more by comparable expenditures in such areas as sanitation, education and better housing.

Among more than 50 curatives for current problems, the commission prescribed:

—For doctors, dentists and other professionals: Periodic examinations for renewal of their licenses as a prod to keep up their skills and knowledge and to discourage "unnecessary or overly expensive tests and served under the chairmanship treatments" on the part of J. Irwin Miller, chairman of some The commission listed re- views by peers or associates as one of its most important recommendations.

—For hospitals: Financial re- wards for efficiency and quality care so the better ones might expand and prosper and the worse ones go out of business.

—Federal financial help to medical and dental schools to improve quality and expand enrollment. Loans to students covering full tuition and living costs, repayable over a period of years or in two years' time given to a national service other than Selective Service.

Care For Disadvantaged —Highest priority for improving health care of disadvantaged persons.

President Johnson named the 15-man commission last May. He asked it to recommend ways of improving the availability and use of health manpower. Representatives of labor, finance, education, industry, hospitals, medicine and the press

Allies Can Only Guess at Red Strategy for Dak To

By PETER ARNETT

DAK TO, Vietnam (AP) — The Communists in the battle for Dak To may be attempting to achieve what they accomplished earlier this year just be-

Then fighting erupted on the hills that ring the Dak To bowl. As it grew more intense, allied officers said Communist communications had broken down and some Red units "hadn't received the word to pull out."

A News Analysis

low the demilitarized zone—sucking large American forces away from population centers and bogging them down in a stalemate of mountain combat.

U. S. commanders, after advancing successive theories of what the North Vietnamese are up to, admit now they don't know what the enemy is trying to do.

"Whatever it is," said one American brigade commander, "it may take a lot more U. S. troops to find out, and I wonder if we can afford to send them here."

So far about 6,000 Americans and 4,000 South Vietnamese have been committed to the battle of Dak To. Communist forces are estimated at 6,000 to 8,000 North Vietnamese.

Vast Firepower

The allied forces are methodically applying vast firepower against an enemy that is clinging to the mountain tops with a tenacity astounding senior American officers.

What at first appeared to be a Communist attempt to obtain a quick, cheap victory against two lonely government outposts has developed into a full-fledged enemy campaign.

Presumptions early in November that the North Vietnamese forces would pull back across the Cambodian-Laotian border after initial reverses have proved erroneous.

The Communists are staying and fighting. During the week-end firefights were reported in every sector around Dak To except to the southeast, the only sector where allied forces are not deployed. The fighting is as intense as the worst just south of the DMZ earlier this year.

U. S. commanders early in November assumed the Communists were building up their forces to overrun the Special Forces camp and a South Vietnamese regimental headquarters in the center of the Dak To valley. The commanders thought the rapid deployment of U. S. forces frustrated this.

Last week, after several major actions, Maj. Gen. William R. Peers, commander of the U. S. 4th Infantry Division said confidently: "The North Vietnamese are infiltrating across the border. We are trying to trap one regiment."

By the end of last week, as the ground fighting continued on a fairly large scale, the 4th Division's analysis was that the Communists were "about to launch a 'second round' of the battle."

Admit Confusion

On Sunday, however, Peers admitted, "The situation is confusing. There are some indications the North Vietnamese are withdrawing, and some that they want to fight."

With the battle now in its 18th day, this much seems apparent: The North Vietnamese have dug in for a long stay, and are deploying four regiments offensively.

Many caches of ammunition and new clothing have been found in the hills, indicating that the Communists had been building up in the region for many months and probably remained there after battles earlier this year in Dak To.

The North Vietnamese have the same advantages at Dak To that they have on the DMZ front—a sanctuary across the border and difficult terrain that puts al-

Just as U. S. Marines were moved from the northern coast to the DMZ front, a brigade of the U. S. 1st Air Cavalry Division has been deployed at Dak To, leaving the heavily populated Bong Son coastal area with only a handful of troops to continue intensive pacification. Three months ago the 1st Air Cavalry had three brigades to chase the guerrillas in northern Binh Dinh Province, an area of half a million people. Now there are only three battalions, and these are mostly occupied holding on to half a dozen bases.

"It's a pity we had to leave Bong Son," a senior officer commented. "It is at a critical stage and too early for civilian pacification. If we don't return soon, we could lose it back to the Viet Cong."

U.N. Holds Annual Debate on China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Chinese for Nationalist Chinese (AP) — U.N. diplomats expect the General Assembly's annual debate over whether to admit Communist China opening today, to end in defeat again for Peking. Friends of Nationalist China say the vote against the Chinese Reds will be bigger than last year.

Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath was to introduce a resolution sponsored by 10 non-aligned and Communist countries seeking to substitute Communist

Senate Ready for Social Security Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appears ready to wrap up before Thanksgiving its work on one of the most sweeping Social Security bills ever considered by Congress.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has set early opening schedules for the next two days and obtained a strict limitation on debate on all remaining amendments. This is expected to bring final passage of the legislation on Wednesday.

The final form of the measure then will be determined in a conference between the Senate and House, which passed the bill last August.

In three days of debate last week, the bill's managers succeeded in maintaining it in nearly the form in which it won Senate Finance Committee approval.

Many more amendments remain to be acted on. The big test is expected on a Republican move to substitute the House bill for the version worked out by the finance panel.

In passing on this, the Senate will determine whether it wants to go along with a much larger benefit increase and also much higher taxes that the committee recommended.

The committee's bill would assure all persons now on the benefit rolls at least a 15 percent increase with a 59 percent hike for those at the bottom of the scale.

The minimum payment would be raised from the present $44 a month to $70.

The House voted for a boost of at least 12½ per cent in benefits and a $50 minimum.

On the tax side, the big difference between the two versions is in the eventual wage base on which the payroll levies would be paid.

The House voted to boost the base to $7,600 a year from the present $6,600. The Senate Finance Committee plan would raise the base to $8,000 next year and eventually to $10,000 in 1972.

U.S., Soviets Pondering Air Service

MOSCOW (AP) — A new Soviet IL62 jet airliner left today on its first flight to the United States. Aboard were officials to discuss a regular New York-Moscow airline service.

The group headed by Dmitry I. Petrov, inspector-general of civil aviation, will begin technical talks in Washington Tuesday. A spokesman for the Ministry of Civil Aviation said the group expects to fly back to Moscow by the end of the week.

An agreement for the first direct air service between the United States and the Soviet Union was signed a year ago.

Two earlier technical sessions have been held and now the route can be opened "fairly soon," the U.S. State Department has said.

The IL62, whose four jet engines are mounted on the tail like the British VC10, has recently begun flying to Montreal, New Delhi and Rome. It must now obtain an American certificate of airworthiness and pass noise level tests at New York's Kennedy Airport.

Dating Records Embarrass Coeds

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP) — "Dating records" of coeds in Thomson Dormitory at Winthrop College reportedly are being sold to their Clemson University "steady" boys.

It seems that some "sign-out" cards of Thomson Dorm's 300 resident women were stolen recently. The cards show when each girl went out, with whom and when they returned.

To a Clemson man who—although some 200 miles away—thinks he is the steady beau of one of the coeds the cards can be valuable. One report said cards sold for as much as $5.

One worried coed going steady with a Clemson man groaned: "Do you realize that my card was nearly full and his name wasn't even on it?"

Seating Would Bring War, Nationalist Says

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming of Nationalist China told the General Assembly today that to seat Communist China in the United Nations would encourage Peking in aggression to the point where war would be necessary.

Wei's remarks were for the assembly's annual debate on the China issue.

59-45 against the pro-Peking resolution, a margin of 14. Last year it was 57-46, with other members abstaining. They said almost all the governments changing their stand are African.

The sponsors with Cambodia of the resolution are Albania, Algeria, Congo, Brazzaville, Cuba, Guinea, Mali, Mauritania, Romania and Syria.

The United States and 13 other countries are sponsoring a resolution reaffirming that any change in China's representation requires a two-thirds vote in its favor. It is expected to pass, as did similar resolutions in 1961, 1965 and 1966.

Solution Study — On Tuesday, Ambassador Piero Vinci of Italy will introduce a resolution calling for a study committee to recommend "an equitable and practical solution" of the Chinese representation question to the 1968 assembly. That resolution seems likely to fail, as did a similar one last year.

In 1950, the year after the Chinese Communists took over mainland China and the Nationalist government moved to Formosa, the assembly voted 38-10 against a Soviet resolution to oust the Nationalists, 37-11 against a Soviet resolution to seat the Communists and 33-16 against an Indian resolution saying Peking "should be entitled to represent" China.

Lunar Landing Craft Model On Launch Pad

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The first model of a manned lunar landing craft has been moved to a launch pad, aiming for a mid-January launching date.

The space agency and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Co., the prime contractor, placed the first Lunar Module atop a Saturn 1 rocket on launch pad 37B Sunday.

The rocket is the same one that was on pad 34 last Jan. 27 when three astronauts died as fire erupted in their Apollo 1 spacecraft.

The Saturn 1 is to place the module in an orbit more than 100 miles high for a flight scheduled to last 6.5 hours. During the test, the craft's two main engines each are to be ignited twice.

These are the descent engine, designed to drop the bug-like craft and its two-man crew to the surface of the moon, and the ascent engine, which is to lift them off. Leak problems with both engines have delayed the first test flight several months.

happy holidays

Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Thanksgiving may have stemmed from ancient harvest festivals, but the way we do it at the tag end of November each year makes it thoroughly American. Starting with that first Pilgrim feast in 1621, the turkey has become the symbolic bird for Thanksgiving dinner along with all the trimmings.

The big bird, roasted to a beautiful golden and tantalizing brown, must have a special stuffing or dressing with it. Go-alongs which have become traditional are the mashed potatoes and cranberries.

What's added to the feast depends on geography — where you're from. Yankee New Englanders swear by mashed rutabaga or creamed onions . . . sometimes creamed turnips are on the menu. Southerners prefer candied yams or some version of sweet potatoes. Midwest homemakers often have both.

Pumpkin and mince pies . . . usually both . . . are preferred by Northerners, while our Southern cousins take to fruit ambrosia and some dressed-up variation of pound cake such as today's Georgia Pecan Pound Cake.

Even the stuffing and how to serve it depends largely on where the homemaker or her spouse grew up. There is the cornbread dressing of the South, usually baked and served in its own dish to be passed with the roasted bird. However, cornbread is used often by cooks in many sections of the United States, frequently combined with sausage meat if the family has a German background. There are many variations on the bread stuffing theme, giblet . . . mushroom . . . apple raisin . . . nut . . . water chestnut oyster . . . and even a "calico" stuffing that combines cornbread with chopped celery, chopped green peppers and pimiento strips. This last one makes a colorful stuffing.

Today's offering is a traditional Thanksgiving dinner from Atlanta, Ga., where hospitality is more than a passing phrase. In this southern city of gracious people it is tradition for friends as well as families to join together to commemorate a bountiful harvest with traditional foods.

The turkey is roasted alone, a cornbread dressing served on the side. The meal starts off with a shrimp and grapefruit cocktail, easily made with segments of fruit and jumbo shrimp (deveined) served together. Sweet Potato Souffle and Spiced peaches are the go-alongs at the table and the dessert is Georgia Pecan Pound Cake and thinly sliced fruit cake served with coffee or iced tea.

Just to round things out, included are a few other stuffing recipes (called dressing when served alone), that may appeal as well for the holiday.

As for the turkey itself, the prepared bird should be washed in cool water inside and out thoroughly, then dried very well. Gizzards, neck and liver usually are cooked in double boiler to be used in gravy.

ROASTING THE BIRD

Turkeys of any size may be roasted. Correct roasting is dry heat cooking at low temperature. It requires no water, no searing, no basting, and no cover.

A shallow pan with a rack at least a half inch high raises the bird off the bottom of the pan, keeping it out of the juices and allowing the heat to circulate around the bird, roasting it evenly.

Always roast turkey done in one continuous cooking period. Low temperatures assure better flavor and appearance, less shrinkage and less loss of juices.

Here are the simple steps:

1—Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. (slow).

2—Rinse, drain and dry the bird. Rub cavity lightly with salt, if desired. Do not salt if bird is to be stuffed.

3—If to be stuffed, fill wish-bone area (neck) loosely and fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Sometimes the snapped back wing tips hold the neck skin down. Fill body cavity lightly, because dressing tends to expand. Tie drumsticks to the tail.

4—Place turkey breast side up on rack in shallow roasting pan. Brush skin with butter or fat. If a roast meat thermometer is to be used, insert it so that the bulb is in the center of the inside thigh muscle or the thickest part of the breast meat. Be sure that the bulb does not touch bone.

5—Place in preheated oven. If desired, baste or brush occasionally with pan drippings or butter — especially any dry areas. When turkey is two-thirds done, cut cord or band of skin at tail to release the legs and permit the heat to reach the heavy-meated part. Cover with a loose tent of aluminum foil or lay a fat-moistened cloth over the legs and breast to prevent excessive browning.

6—To test doneness, a roast meat thermometer placed in the center of the inside thigh muscle or the thickest part of the breast muscle should register approximately 180-185 degrees F. If stuffing is used, it should register 165 degrees F. at the same time. Turkey is done when the thickest part of drumstick feels very soft when pressed between protected fingers.

It takes less time to roast a turkey without stuffing than one stuffed. Also remember that a frozen turkey should be thawed slowly in the refrigerator, several days, or left in covering several hours at room temperature before baking. Most cooks use the refrigerator method and place the frozen bird there now

Italy's Parliament Passes First Part of Divorce Bill

By EDWARD MAGRI Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Divorce, a conservative Liberals voted for the same party lineup in the full chamber of deputies would make it still has a long way to go despite its first legislative victory.

A parliamentary committee voted 21-20 Thursday to approve the first section of a bill to make divorce possible in Italy under limited circumstances. The entire bill still has to clear the committee and then both houses of Parliament.

But the vote was a landmark. It was the first time a divorce bill was voted on by members of Parliament in the 107 years that Italy has been a unified nation.

The bill would permit divorce in these cases:

- After five years of unbroken legal separation.
- When a spouse has been sentenced to a prison term of at least 12 years.
- When one spouse has been convicted of sexual crimes against close relatives, or of any crime against the other spouse or their children.
- When a spouse has been in a mental institution for five years with no prospect of prompt recovery.

Two years after a non-Italian spouse has obtained a divorce or has married again abroad.

Only the single Fascist member of the committee joined Premier Aldo Moro's Christian Democrats in voting against the bill's first section. Everybody else, from Communists to the

Lutheran Church Women Hold Fellowship Meeting

About 70 women attended the Interfaith Fellowship meeting Wednesday at First English Lutheran Church. The event, sponsored by the Lutheran Church Women of First English and Grace Lutheran churches, was designed to allow women of different faiths to learn more about the liturgical aspects of the Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Leonard Ziemer, First English, explained the schooling and internship of a Lutheran pastor. He also reviewed the history of the Lutheran church in the U.S. and in Appleton and explained the synodical divisions and the recent mergers of synods.

Service Outlined

The Lutheran worship service was reviewed by Pastor Ziemer, employing the hymnal used by two-thirds of the Lutheran churches.

The minister's dress and the Paramonts and Appointments of the altar were explained by student Pastor Eugene Leiter.

After the program in the church, visiting women toured the educational building and heard an explanation of Sunday school literature.

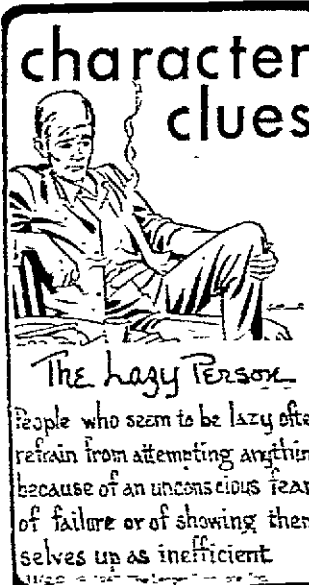

Refreshments were served in the Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Willard Liedtke, First English, and Mrs. Louie G. Klemm, Grace Lutheran, had charge of hostesses. Mrs. Gaylord Derber and Mrs. Lawrence Zimmerman were co-chairman of the refreshment committee.

saying she happened to be in a New York salon where the gown was within view.

The designer, the Times reported, is Geoffrey Beane. The designer reported the gown is of imported white silk faille in a modified A-line cut with high, wedding ring collar and a matching open crown pillbox headpiece.

Embroidery was evident at the neck and tips of the long sleeves, she reported.

The gown and other details of the Dec. 9 wedding of the President's daughter to Marine Capt. Charles Robb are expected to be released Tuesday by the White House.

'Booted Up' in Leather

NEW YORK — This fall, boot fanciers are high on the down-to-earth natural leather look. Indoors . . . outdoors . . . all around the town, the ladies who love boots (and they are legion) will be wearing dashing leather boots and booties in rugged authentic leathers.

The boot has never been better — for serviceability or styling. American leathers are tough yet gentle, and gratifyingly handsome. Most popular are the grained, waxy, glove and brushed leather textures, but the smooth, suede and embossed leathers are also important to the complete boot picture. Heights will range from almost thigh-high to ankle-deep.

Boot Versatility

Women have been won over by the leather boot's versatility . . . its knack for partnering everything from pants to mini-skirts. But the wise ones know that, for value and comfort, leather has natural assets possessed by no other shoe or boot material. One is "moldability," an easy shaping to the foot so that the leather bends as you bend, flexes as you flex. Porosity — part of leather's animal structure — permits entrance of air into the shoe and absorption of foot moisture, keeping feet dry. Add to these, special tanning processes that make new American boot leathers resistant to water and scuffing, for a boot that's all-round best.

There's a mannish tailored quality to many of this fall's leather boots that is highly complementary to the new vest-suits, kilts and turtleneck styles. The grained, waxy and brushed leathers — so handsome in countryside shades of brown, gold and green — have been crafted into sleek knee and calf-high boots, cut close to the leg. Heels are low and squat, toes wide and squarish. Stepping in and out is facilitated by gored insets or zippers. (Although the latter may be placed at the side or back, one boot actually zips round and round — peeling the leather down so that the boot can be stepped into like a shoe.) In these boots, linings may be smooth lightweight leather or, for extra protection during wintry weather, warm shearling.

Sectioned Boot

For leather boots with a bit more embellishment, local boot-makers are showing a variety of looks. There's the tall boot completely laced up the front — through eyelets or, for a "change of lace," around brass hooks. For a different effect, look for the "sectioned" leather boot. This is a boot with front, back and sides of four separate leather strips, sewn together . . . the front and back often being in a second leather or color.

Big fall favorite is the brass-trimmed leather boot or boot-shoe sporting brass buckle, chunky chains, brass studs, galosh clips or door-knocker. Ditto the over-the-knee nifty in butter-soft leather.

Members of Phi Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi gather around Mrs. Maynard Mathison, secretary-treasurer of D.E.A.F. Inc., after her talk before the group Thursday. Facing the camera are Miss Judy Rankin, Mrs. Calvin Kaufman, Mrs. Mathison, and Mrs. Kenneth Wolff, at whose home the group Thursday. Facing the camera

From the looks of things we You can hear them rattling girls are in the chains of fashion. Literally!

This is nothing new, of course. Chains trim hats, dangle from Figuratively speaking we're all ears and throats, belt dresses, ways fashion's prisoners. But strap purses, ring wrists and now those chains are for real wrists of gloves, festoon shoes and boots.

This chain-a-mania originated in Chanel's little quilted purse with the chain handle. Or so it is believed. Anyhow, soon thereafter, designers on both sides of the Atlantic began to see the seemingly endless possibilities in chains. Of lovelies in chains!

The look of the hardware is right when it's backdropped with the cool chic of easy, uncomplicated town or country clothes. Wear a fedora banded with a chain when you wear a tweed walking suit — and you've got it right. But don't be carried away by your success. Chains can gang up on you, as in the case of a woman we know.

She bought everything in sight with a chain motif and she wears the works at the same time. All she lacks is a pair of handcuffs.

When it comes to accessories, two of a kind is company; three's a crowd. Otherwise the effect is likely to become an indiscriminate mass. Like peas in porridge.

Sheinwold Grand Slam Made by Shrewdness

Roger Lord, 26-year-old St. Louis bridge enthusiast, bid seven notrump on today's hand because only a grand slam could pull the match out of the fire. The hand was dealt during the recent International Rubber Bridge Tournament at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

West led the jack of hearts, and East signaled with the eight. Lord won with the queen and saw that he needed four clubs to make his grand slam.

Declarer took dummy's spades, got to his hand with the king of diamonds and cashed two more spades, discarding hearts from dummy. West shrewdly threw two diamonds, carefully saving his "useless" clubs.

Declarer next took the other top diamonds and the ace of hearts. West followed suit with the ten of hearts, "concealing" the presence of the nine in his hand. South continued with a club to the ace, a club to the king, and then a club toward dummy's queen-ten.

Moment of Truth
The moment of truth had arrived: Lord had to decide whether to play the queen of clubs or try a finesse with the ten.

South felt sure that East had yoked with the whole eggs, the king of hearts since West reserving the whites. (The pound cake mix calls for only two eggs, thus recipe notes four to take care of extra ones).

Stir nutmeg (mace may be used instead, if desired) into batter. Turn into greased, 9-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven for one and a quarter hours, or until done. Cool in pan 30 minutes before removing, then cool completely.

In double boiler combine reserved egg whites with next five ingredients. Beat at high speed to blend, then beat over rapidly boiling water until frosting stands in soft peaks. Remove from water heat; beat until stiff peaks form. Cut cake into three horizontal layers. Fill and frost cake, sprinkling chopped pecans between each layer. Coat entire cake with remaining pecans. Slice and serve.

Daily Question
As a dealer, you hold: S-A Q 7 3. H-A Q 3. D-K Q 6. C-K 8 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club. You intend to jump to 3-NT if partner makes any weak response. Your hand is too strong for an opening bid of 1-NT but not quite strong enough for an opening bid of 2-NT.

CORN MUFFIN STUFFING WITH MINCEMEAT

- 1 pkg. (8-oz.) corn muffin mix
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed rosemary leaves
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup ready-to-use mincemeat
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cups coarsely chopped celery
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped almonds

Mix and bake corn muffins according to package directions. Cool, then crumble muffins in large bowl. Add egg, milk, salt, pepper, rosemary, parsley and mincemeat. Blend well.

Melt butter. Measure one-third cup butter (save rest for brushing the bird just before placing in oven), and in this amount cook onion, celery and almonds for 8 to 10 minutes over low heat. Add to stuffing mixture; toss lightly with fork to blend. Spoon stuffing into cavities of turkey, or bake in casserole or oblong baking dish.

SOUTHERN CORNBREAD DRESSING
2 cups coarsely grated white bread
3 pkgs. corn muffin mix (8-ounce pkgs.)

- 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup snipped parsley
- 1 teaspoon ground sage
- 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 1/4 cups chicken broth
- 2 eggs, unbeaten

Combine grated white bread, muffin mix (as it comes in packages), celery, chopped onion, parsley, sage and pepper. Add broth and eggs. Blend mixture thoroughly into as smooth a batter as possible. Pour into a 7 1/2 x 11 1/2-inch baking dish. Bake from 30 to 35 minutes in a preheated, 375-degree oven. Serve warm from the baking dish. Recipe makes about 12 servings.

SWEET POTATO SOUFFLE

- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 1/2 cups mashed sweet potatoes
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 6 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 cup gingersnap crumbs

Combine first four ingredients in large mixer bowl. Add potatoes; beat until blended. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well.

Combine salt and spices with one-fourth cup sugar; add to potato mixture with remaining ingredients in recipe, except reserved sugar and egg whites.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually add rest of sugar gradually, beating until stiff but not dry. Fold into potato mixture. Pour into greased, 1 1/2-quart souffle dish or casserole. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven one hour and 15 minutes, or until done and top is brown. Serve immediately. Recipe makes 12 half-cup servings.

GEORGIA PECAN POUND CAKE

- 1 pkg. pound cake mix
- 1/2 cup milk
- 4 eggs
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon light corn syrup
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups chopped pecans

Prepare cake according to directions, adding two extra yolks with the whole eggs, the king of hearts since West reserving the whites. (The pound cake mix calls for only two eggs, thus recipe notes four to take care of extra ones).

Stir nutmeg (mace may be used instead, if desired) into batter. Turn into greased, 9-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven for one and a quarter hours, or until done. Cool in pan 30 minutes before removing, then cool completely.

In double boiler combine reserved egg whites with next five ingredients. Beat at high speed to blend, then beat over rapidly boiling water until frosting stands in soft peaks. Remove from water heat; beat until stiff peaks form. Cut cake into three horizontal layers. Fill and frost cake, sprinkling chopped pecans between each layer. Coat entire cake with remaining pecans. Slice and serve.

PRUNE SAUSAGE STUFFING

- 1 box (12 oz.) pitted prunes
- 1 pound sausage meat
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 12 cups stale bread cubes
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons marjoram
- 1/2 cup stock or water

Cut pitted prunes into large pieces. Brown sausage in skillet, breaking up with fork. Remove sausage, reserving three-fourths cup of sausage drippings. Sauté onion and celery in drippings. Remove and toast bread cubes lightly, adding butter if necessary. Combine with vegetables, salt and marjoram. Blend mixture with browned sausage, prune pieces and stock. Stuff a 12-pound turkey.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): One of the most tormenting afflictions is the burning itch caused by piles. It's most embarrassing during the day and especially aggravating at night. "Scratching" only makes the condition worse. No matter what you've tried without results — here's good news.

A scientific research institute discovered a special medication which has the ability, in most cases — to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so. And it was accomplished without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.

The secret is Preparation H® — an exclusive formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids. There is no other formula like it! In case after case, Preparation H promptly stops the burning itch, relieves pain — as it gently reduces the swelling. Preparation H also lubricates, gently soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

Cranberry Treats for Holiday Dieters

To help weight watchers avoid over-indulging during the holidays, we present here a duo of sugar-free cranberry treats, all trimmed to but a fraction of their usual calorie counts.

One of the best cranberry dishes we've come across in a long time is the sweet yet tangy Cranberry Fruit Compote.

CALORIE COUNTDOWN

shown in the shallow white casserole. Serve it warm or chilled with turkey, chicken or a pork roast. With the help of a calorie-free sweetener, each serving has been decalorized to less than one-third the usual calorie count.

The other sugar-free holiday treat is a cranberry-red and handsome Jellied Cranberry Cheese Salad, calorie-trimmed from 167 to just 59 calories per serving.

CRANBERRY FRUIT COMPOTE

- 4 cups raw cranberries
- 2 cups fresh orange sections
- 2 cups fresh sliced pears
- 1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca
- 3/4 cup water
- 4 tablespoons liquid sweetener

Set oven at 350 degrees. Lightly mix fruits and tapioca; place in a shallow two-quart casserole.

Combine water and sweetener; pour over fruit.

Cover and bake 25 minutes. Stir, recover and continue to bake 15 minutes longer, or until fruits are tender. Serve warm or chilled.

This recipe makes six cups, each 1/2 cup serving 55 calories; 0.5 gram protein; 0.5 gram fat; 13.5 grams carbohydrate.

JELLIED CRANBERRY CHEESE SALAD

- 1 1/2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/4 cup cold water
- 2 cups fresh cranberries
- 3 cups low-calorie cranberry juice cocktail
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons liquid sweetener
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 (3-ounce) pkg neufchatel cheese, cut into cubes

In large bowl, soften gelatin in cold water.

In saucepan, combine cranberries and one cup of the cranberry juice cocktail; bring just to the boil. Add to softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve.

Blend in remaining two cups cranberry juice, lemon juice and sweetener. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in chopped celery and cubed cheese. Carefully spoon into a lightly oiled six-cup mold; chill until set.

Recipe makes eight servings, each 1/2 cup serving 59 calories; 3 grams protein; 3 grams fat; 5.5 grams carbohydrate.

Suggest Weekly Shampoo for Men

Unless you're looking for a job in a rock 'n roll combo, forget about way-out hair styles. Keep your hair trimmed, keep it clean, keep it combed. Shampoo at least once every week—or just as soon as your hair begins to get oily and dirty. Wet your hair and work up a good lather. Scrub hair and scalp with a brush or your finger tips, then rinse out all the suds.

For a really great shampoo, go through the whole routine a second time. That's what good barbers do.

Such germ-spreaders as door-knobs, telephones, stair rails, and electric switch plates need to be washed off regularly with a cloth or sponge dipped into hot soap or detergent suds.

Vaccine Can Help Curb Winter Flu

The onslaught of flu that in our population has now risen threatens us periodically prom- to the point where the disease ises this winter to be especially can be easily transmitted. This dangerous. Public Health au- occurs every two to three years, thorities warn that susceptibility While outbreaks can be predicted with fair accuracy, the behavior of the flu virus itself cannot. The virus is a slippery culprit: it has a knack of developing mutants — variant strains — that defy previously effective vaccines. The most recent transformation came in 1957, when a new strain, A2, developed and became known as Asiatic flu. To complicate matters, each new strain may develop variants of its own.

Only Cure

The only "cure" is prevention. Two vaccines are available this year. Bivalent, a new vaccine formulation, is recommended particularly for older persons, especially those 65 and over. Underlying chronic illness is common among the elderly, who for this reason are likely to suffer more from an attack of flu. The older vaccine, polyvalent, is designed to combat all four known variants of the virus.

But says Dr. H. Bruce Doll of the National Communicable Disease Center, "We cannot claim that a shot is the final answer . . . against flu." That virus is too hard to pin down, and people vary in their response to vaccination. It does, however, offer the best protection, he said.

All Four Tires Are Flat Much Work Faced by Candidate Romney

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney, the onetime auto-maker, is going to have to patch up his old car or build a brand new one if he hopes for a chance among other Republicans racing for the GOP presidential nomination.

The Michigan governor proved he thinks he has a ler has steadily insisted he doesn't want the nomination.

Romney has put four kinds of nails in his tires: By contradicting himself, his vagueness on national issues, being insufficiently informed on them, and by boners, like saying U.S. officials "brainwashed" him in Vietnam.

"Should be Confident"

The vagueness was conspicuous Saturday when he made his announcement. He hardly said anything more specific than, "One who aspires to the presidency should be confident he can be useful and capable of providing the needed leadership."

Then Sunday he was questioned by newsmen when he appeared on CBS television's "Face the Nation." He started out saying he thought he could do better than President Johnson in finding a solution to the Vietnamese war.

After that he didn't have an easy time with the newsmen who wanted to find out why he thought so. He was reminded there has been a lot of caustic doubt about his ability to rise and shine in the presidency.

Romney replied that if anyone checked his statements on Vietnam, all the way back, he would find the governor had been consistent except when "I stated frankly...that I had changed my mind."

Nixon Ahead

Over the weekend the Gallup poll showed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon leading with 42 per cent, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller second with 15 per cent, and Romney third with 14 per cent.

This might seem a little discouraging to anyone but Romney, for while he has been running around like a man with an 8-cylinder engine, feeling pulses and seeking support, Rockefeller

9 Die of Heart Attacks Gunshots Fatal to 3 Hunters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least a dozen men died—three of them of gunshot wounds—and some 35 others were shot during the first weekend of the Wisconsin 1967 deer hunting season.

Eighteen hunters died last year, including six shooting deaths, and there were 26 victims of the year before.

The State Division of Conservation said an apparent record number of hunters was one reason for the shooting accidents. It said Sunday night that both hunting pressure—measured in hunters per square mile of deer range—and the deer kill were running above last year's pace in most areas.

Not Serious

The division said that 35 non-fatal bullet wounds were reported by Sunday night—most of them not very serious.

The three gunshot deaths all occurred Saturday.

Not Consistent

But he hadn't been consistent. Changing his mind and even reversing himself was perhaps the most conspicuous feature of his statements.

He said on Sept. 4 he had changed his mind and has said little since Sept. 4 was the day he said he had been brainwashed when he visited Vietnam with nine other governors. They refuted his brainwashing charge later.

He got such a bad reaction on this one, since it envisioned an American president who could be brainwashed some day if Romney moved into the White House, that on Sept. 9 he thought it necessary to explain what he meant by brainwashing.

His explanation didn't add much. He said he didn't mean "the Russian type brainwashing." In using that word, he told reporters, he meant the same thing "you mean when you write about the credibility gap, snow jobs, and manipulation of the news."

Sunday he offered a solution for the Vietnamese war, a quite different one from his earlier days when he was all for bombing North Vietnam. This time he said Vietnam should be neutralized.

When pressed to explain how, he didn't go beyond saying the neutralizing should be done by some international group. How? He said this group would have to persuade the Vietnamese neutralization was the best thing for them.

Then he explained he is in the process of studying the problem. But, judging from his past performance, if he studies the problem enough he may change his mind.

This was at the root of his Sept. 4 statement about changing his mind on Vietnam. At that time he said the change came after he had delved into a history of that country.

This could be interpreted as meaning he had never been well informed—until he read a history—on a problem he had been talking about with great positiveness for a couple of years.

What's a Parent to Do?

There's been quite a bit of concern, and with adequate reason, among parents, educators and psychiatrists over what perhaps overall is called the hippie movement among the young. In the most part, these hippies are not merely the lazy, unkempt and rebellious. In a far deeper way they seem to be trying to withdraw completely from today's society.

In some ways they have been likened to early Christians and later ones who tried to return to the simpler faith without the pomp and ceremony which man over the centuries tacked on. These hippies or diggers have opened free soup kitchens, offer their own miserable living areas for nothing, to all who come, have even so far successfully operated a store in New York where everything is free and the donations continue to pour in. These hippies, who certainly are committed to something, could teach Americans and nominal churchgoers a lot about important moral values.

But there are the others, the completely alienated, who survive only through the use of ever more dangerous drugs and who sometimes seem more closely related to the almost catatonic stages of insanity, who cause the most concern. They are the ones, usually from at least middle class and often wealthy homes, who "bug out" and seem to have nothing to live for. They drift in the cities, survive as best they can and appear to have no affection, much less love, for anyone including themselves.

At least one psychiatrist places the blame back home. Dr. Benjamin Wolman, dean of the Institute of Applied Psychoanalysis and professor of psychology at Long Island University, says flatly that "the new generation is rebelling against the nothingness in the suburbs. I'm tired of wealthy people who give their children cars, but not moral values, coming to me and saying they don't know what's wrong with their youngsters. What's wrong is that the parents are leading hollow, empty, shallow lives and not giving their children anything to hold on to."

Dr. Wolman went on to say that he thought the hippie movement generally healthy because "at least they show that they aren't dead yet." But he pointed out that parents had failed to teach their children self-restraint. "We must return to the goal of freedom for the child's mind, and not freedom for his impulses. The abdication of parents seems general. Society must have a complete revision of its values or we'll all wind up in nothingness."

American parents may begin to feel buffeted from all sides. There was a time when they were urged to be more permissive so as not to warp young minds, to be pals with their children rather than fearsome figures of authority, and to let youngsters develop at their own speed to avoid nervous breakdowns from too much pressure.

But all of this seemed to add up to lack of any kind of guidance with some parents. And perhaps the current problem is really based even more on the inconsistent and morally barren values a great many Americans may be pursuing.

No matter how much money we pour into the schools — or how many material advantages today's youngster may have — the responsibility for young people's behavior and their futures once more comes back to the home.

State Taxes and Localities

It is true, as statehouse politicians are forever repeating, that the state government of Wisconsin returns far more of its gross tax receipts to local units of government than do most of the states of the country. Indeed, on the face of it, the state is exceedingly generous in its relations with its creature governments.

Yet such comparisons are not necessarily useful or illuminating, except as they take into account the variable practices among the states about the financial responsibility for the variety of public services rendered in this country below the national government level. They rarely do, however, except in scholarly monographs. The politicians do not do so.

In Wisconsin, for example, basic services such as elementary, secondary and vocational education, public assistance, health services, most of the police protective services and scores of others are financed by local governments and operated by them. In many other states, notably in the field of education, the state government has taken over the primary responsibility not only for financing, but for direction. The business of building and providing highways is another relevant example. The practice of having the counties responsible for the maintenance of the entire state highway system, under contract with the state, and even for a substantial part of the construction on that system, is unique in the country.

These are the distinctions, based on habit, differences in historical development, and preferences in fiscal policy, that make most state-local financial relationship comparisons irrelevant.

That is not to say that the state-local finance association in Wisconsin is not an important issue in our public debate. It is rapidly becoming the most important one. Two thirds of all of the money now yielded up to the state treasury through an ingenious array of state taxing laws is now merely funneled through Madison, paid out to local treasurers, and disbursed as part of the local budgets for towns, cities, villages, counties and independent school districts. Because in most jurisdictions the property tax is burdensome, and in some nearing the confiscatory level, there is a powerful and increasing pressure for even larger local shares of state tax collections.

But as our Madison correspondent has observed, the state's tax resources are not inexhaustible. It has repeatedly acted during the last two decades to broaden its tax base, as by incorporating the sales tax into the revenue machinery, and in levying more of the total income tax budget on the lower and middle income earners who possess the vast majority of the taxable dollars available in Wisconsin. The question has now arisen: is there a significant distinction, for the average man, between the property tax on the one hand, and higher local bracket income taxes or sales taxes on a broadening list of commodities and services, as far as his own tax liability is concerned?

Coroners and Medical Examiners

In the rush of business in its fall session, the State Senate has given a surprising but welcome 30 to 1 vote in support of a constitutional amendment which would allow counties to change from the elected coroner to an appointed professional medical examiner should they choose to do so. The amendment now is in the stack of business before the Assembly, and it should endorse the amendment in its planned December meeting.

The process of amending the state constitution requires passage of amendments by both houses at two consecutive sessions of the Legislature followed by a vote of the people in a referendum. Thus, two years could be lost in letting the people decide the question if the Assembly does not approve the amendment which has been sent to it by the Senate. This would be a pointless waste of time.

Milwaukee County now is the only county in the state which is allowed to have a professional medical examiner. There is no reason why this authority should not be extended to all counties.

The proposed amendment would leave the decision on changing to the medical examiner up to each county. It also would allow counties to join together to establish a medical examiner's office.

Fifteen years ago, there were only eight states which provided for a professional office. The list of states making the reform is growing. Iowa abolished 99 elected county coroners in 1960. Kansas abolished 195 such offices in 1965, and the New Jersey Legislature this year approved the end of the remaining county coroners in that state.

The State Medical Society of Wisconsin has endorsed the reform, and it has the support of state professional police organizations. The amendment to allow counties to make the change if they wish and to join in establishing a medical examiner's office is past due in Wisconsin. The amendment should be advanced by this session of the Legislature.

McCarthy Movement Could Beat LBJ in '68, Elect Kennedy in '72

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

It looks as though Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota is the chosen instrument through which left-leaning Democrats will commit damage on President Lyndon Johnson, and of course Senator McCarthy is splendidly qualified. On the one hand he is meticulously liberal — never ever has he erred in the direction of common sense.

when the alternative was to vote liberal. On the other hand, he has managed not to get himself so far out on the left limb as to fall down and go kook, like Henry Wallace. When Mr. Wallace was fired from the Cabinet by President Harry Truman, it was generally accepted that he had become an ideological weird-o, as indeed he proved to be. History certifies that Mr. Wallace's third-party movement was dominated by the Communist Party of the United States, which means dominated by Joseph Stalin. Eugene McCarthy is not a type so easily taken over.

Now the difficulties. They are several in case you didn't know it. Senator Eugene McCarthy is not a fan of Senator Robert Kennedy. Those who demand proof of that assertion being given by faculty members.

10 YEARS AGO

The Valley Gem and Mineral Club was organized in Appleton with Milton Schmitt, Kaukauna, elected president and Mrs. Adrian Godschalk, Appleton, secretary. Robert Neller and Mrs. Byron Delaware, both of Appleton, also were among the charter members.

Senior class officers at Menasha High School were Dick Bremmer, president; Jim Fahrbach, vice president; Judy Gajewski, secretary, and Dal-cannot be satisfied. There is no proof, at least none of the kind you could discount with your local banker. It is generally remembered that at Los Angeles, at the Democratic Convention in 1960, the single most impassioned speech was by Eugene McCarthy — in favor of Adlai Stevenson. The Kennedy forces looked on, unamused. Not that they were afraid that Senator McCarthy, whose oratorical candor was dazzling in its beauty, could succeed in changing the prescribed outcome of the Los Angeles Convention, which was clearly Kennedy. But they did fear that Senator McCarthy's extraordinarily effective oratory might have the effect, on certain critically situated people, of suggesting to them that the nomination of John F. Kennedy got himself the nomination by wresting it from the truly qualified dauphin of democratic idealism, Adlai Stevenson.

But then Mr. Kennedy was not only nominated, but also elected; and — which is important in purely political discussions — martyred. It was well known that Senator Eugene McCarthy wanted most anxiously to be nominated as vice president in 1964, back when it was not known, until Engineers have been using Teflon to fuel an engine named "SPET" in a continuing test. The engine has operated successfully for nearly four months, firing a miniature burst every half-second.

Wisconsin Report

City Transit Firms In Financial Trouble Throughout State

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — For nearly two months the capital city and the second metropolitan center of Wisconsin has been confronted by one of its major crises of recent times as a result of a stubborn disagreement between employees and management of the local bus company that has kept the buses off the streets and virtually strangled local traffic flow which is difficult on the best of days.

Wyngaard

As this is written there is some hope for a resumption of transit service as a result of a community fund drive that its sponsors hope will be successful enough to underwrite the costs of the tentative settlement. But even if the drive is successful and keeps the buses moving for the next year, the incident has dramatized a fact that needs more emphasis and public understanding:

Public transit service in most cities is a vital public service, but it is sick and there is every sign that it will become weaker.

INCREASE SELF-DEFEATING

The usual reply, higher fares, is self-defeating. The normal result is a reduction of patronage, the increasing use of private vehicles, and the worsening of local traffic problems.

The problem is national, but there are indications that it may be worse in some Wisconsin communities than in the country as a whole.

One qualified professional advises this reporter that there is probably not a single local bus company in this state today that is not in financial difficulties, or rapidly approaching operating losses.

It was a dozen years ago that the situation in Janesville became so serious that the city administration was obliged to take over the local bus company and to operate it as a city utility. There are those in Madison who despondently forecast public ownership of the bus service in the capital city. In at least one other city the local government is underwriting losses in order to prevent an abandonment of service. In another the public service commission recently authorized the surrender of the local bus franchise, and there is now pending an application for such abandonment from the owners of the bus company in the city of Fond du Lac.

UTILITIES UNDERWRITE LOSSES

At a casual glance, in those communities where bus service is provided as an auxiliary of a public service utility, the situation may be better, perhaps because the utility is underwriting losses. But it is important to note that the courts have held that utilities owning transit systems cannot be compelled to operate them against their wishes, or at a financial loss.

In Milwaukee the transit is now pressing for a fare increase. The transit line in Wausau has applied for a fare of 30 cents, which would probably be the highest in Wisconsin.

What may the solutions be? State transportation supervision specialists wring their hands and confess they do not know.

The new National Department of Transportation says it is studying the problem, as one of the most serious within its jurisdiction, but without much promise of results to date.

Such state action as is occasionally discussed tends to be largely palliative. A dozen years ago, for example, when the evidence of a transit crisis in Wisconsin cities was already visible, the Legislature offered some tax and other concessions to the passenger bus lines. The situation has grown steadily worse.

DUE TO CUSSEDNESS

Partly it is human cursedness that is involved, if the Madison situation may be used to illustrate. While the bus system was in danger of imminent and final collapse, thousands of residents living on bus routes were driving their private autos to crowded downtown, in spite of the city's singular geographic makeup which means more driving than in others of its size. Now other thousands, including young boys and girls, oldersters, shoppers of modest means, among others, are being deprived of a basic service upon which they had learned to fashion their work and their lives.

Strictly Personal

Laws on Occasion Can Create Crime

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Most of us would define a "crime" as something that is "against the law." But few of us think of a law as something that "creates crime." It is time we began thinking about it.

Harris

One of the most obvious examples is the law limiting the eligibility of poor families for relief if there is a working father in the household. This law has driven thousands of ghetto husbands away from their families, so that the wives could collect Aid-to-Dependent-Children allotments.

Even more serious are the laws against gambling, prostitution, drug-taking, and so forth. It is these laws that account for the rise and the influence of "organized crime" in America. This is where and how the Syndicate got its original bankroll.

In all our high moral fulminations against organized crime in the big cities, we rarely stop to consider that the origin of Syndicate crime was the stupid and ineffectual law of Prohibition, which put huge sums into the pockets of gang chieftains who dealt in illegal liquor, and who corrupted hundreds of police forces throughout the nation.

Then, when Prohibition was repealed, the gangs shifted their fields of operation to women, gambling, and dope. They became so rich in these three areas that most of them entered respectable enterprises, and now control thousands of "legitimate" businesses built on blood and muscle.

We cannot stop gambling. We cannot stop prostitution. We cannot stop dope-addiction. These are bad things that people want to do to themselves, and they will find a way to do them, no matter how repressive society becomes. As long as there is a market for these commodities, organized crime will supply it, for the profit is far greater than the risk of punishment.

I do not suggest that gambling, prostitution, or drug-taking be legalized. It is difficult to cope with the aberrations of the human spirit. But it is worth recognizing that organized crime does not make its money by attacking persons or stealing property — it makes it by gratifying needs that are forbidden by society.

As long as these personal vices are considered "crimes" — rather than as pathological disturbances in the social body — organized crime will flourish, police will be corrupted, and politicians will remain susceptible to outside influence. The effort to legalize morality always has the opposite effect of demoralizing legality.

Negro leadership, Negro staff members of the commission arranged for Lindsay and Harris to meet clandestinely with that city's black nationalist leaders. Far more than formal testimony before the commission, this meeting has given commission members a chilling insight into the revolutionary temperament on the Negro left.
College Graduates
About 15 Negro leaders attended. All were college graduates, and most either had graduate degrees or were candidates for them. Most had experience doing slum social work. All once had been part of the non-violent civil rights movement.
But they had long ago discarded non-violence and social work along with conventional western clothing. To symbolize their break with the white man's tenuous samplings of slum social conventions, all but one dressed in African shirts (many wearing African amulets around their necks). All pointedly refused to shake hands with

The one Negro in conventional dress was the group's spokesman, a young minister. After making sure that all newsmen were present and that all doors were locked, he began a 20-minute monologue (described in a confidential memorandum as a commission staffer present as "delivered with passionate intensity but in a very calm, low-key manner").
Their Doctrine
According to this memorandum, the clergyman set forth the following doctrine of the black left:
For 400 years, the Negro had tried to appeal to the white man's morals. It could not be done, because the white man had no morals. The system the whites have erected to protect their pocketbook is without moral base and is wholly corrupt.
We were wasting their time with talk. The time for talk was past. Since the white man could not be reached morally, he would be reached through his pocketbook. It was fruitless to talk of reform within the system. The system must fall.
Others followed in the same vein, many of them opening their remarks by repeating the minister's contention that Lindsay and Harris were just wasting their time. They also reaffirmed the minister's conviction that the system was corrupt and that their intention was to destroy it.
This theme of violence was wholly explicit. Claiming they had been prepared for the riots in this midwestern city last summer, they promised they also would be prepared in the future. Moreover, they forecast that the next riot would use sophisticated guerrilla tactics to hit public utilities, urban expressways, and other nerve centers to cripple the complex technological society.
Commission Conclusion
In summary, the commission staff member concluded:
This group has a precisely articulated rationale for destruction. They are classic anarchists. They also have a well articulated strategy and set of tactics. This meeting was a dramatic experience for all of us. We were the personal targets of deep bitterness, hopelessness and frustration and hate.
The deeper question concerns the extent to which these well educated, articulate extremists reflect the overall mood of the Negro slums. The evidence gathered by the presidential riot commission and other sources, is that the critical struggle for control of the Negro masses is now under way with a frightening possibility that the extremists will win.
The riot commission's interim report, not yet drafted but scheduled for publication in early January will disavow any elaborate conspiracy with roots in Moscow or Peking. Nevertheless, it also almost surely will call attention to the existence of black revolutionaries whose ability to trigger and control violence is becoming the country's most dangerous problem, specifically including Vietnam.

It's Never Too Late For Flu Vaccination

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am violently allergic to eggs. I read that a person allergic to eggs could die if bitten by a bee. Is there something I could take to counteract a bee sting? I plan on having a garden again next spring and am terribly worried.

— Mrs. J. M.

The experts, from studying the patterns of flu outbreaks, report that they anticipate a substantial number of cases of the Asian-type of flu this year, primarily in the eastern part of the country. But influenza has a nasty record of fooling us from time to time and breaking out when and where not expected.

The rule for vaccination, if you don't remember, is this: If you haven't had flu vaccine, you need two injections, about two months apart.

If you have been vaccinated for it before, you need only one injection, a booster provided your last flu vaccine was given to you some time since the summer of 1963. Personally, however, since protection fades gradually, I prefer two injections if more than a year or two has passed since your last one.

Dear Dr. Molner: By mistake I ate two pieces of pork liver which were not well done. Is there any pre-treatment to prevent getting the disease caused by pork worms when the meat is not thoroughly cooked? — K. N.

There is no pre-treatment. In fact, there is no specific treatment if the disease does develop, except to ease the symptoms. So just hope that the meat you are was not contaminated.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am violently allergic to eggs. I read that a person allergic to eggs could die if bitten by a bee. Is there something I could take to counteract a bee sting? I plan on having a garden again next spring and am terribly worried.

— Mrs. J. M.

Allergy to eggs and to bee stings have nothing in common — except that a person strongly allergic to one thing usually has a tendency to be allergic to something else, too.

Thus being allergic to eggs is rather feeble cause to suspect that you might be strongly allergic to bee venom also.

If you are that much worried, go to an allergist for tests to see whether you are unduly sensitive to bee venom. If so, he can give you desensitization treatments and advise of first aid in event of a sting.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that wearing eye liner on the lower eyelid is harmful and would eventually cause one to go blind. I have been wearing it for about two years. It hasn't seemed to irritate my eyes although once in a while I find them bloodshot. I am concerned.

— T. C.

Cosmetics of any kind, including eye liner, can have an irritating effect on some women, and getting a little of the liner onto the eyeball could irritate the delicate membrane. Blindness is not involved, however.

The way some gals pack on the trim, I am surprised that we don't see more red eyeballs.

Dear Dr. Molner: My friends seem to think that going to Florida thins their blood and makes them feel better. I do not agree and we get into arguments. Does a hot climate thin your blood? — X.

No, that's an old fiction without any basis in fact. True, your friends may feel better in a warm climate. Some may also have difficulty in becoming used to the cold weather when they return north, but it isn't because blood becomes thinner or thicker. The consistency remains the same.

There are one or two rare conditions in which blood actually becomes thicker, but this has nothing to do with the vast majority of us.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

"LEAVE A LIGHT FOR THE CHILD WHO'S AFRAID OF THE DARK!" GOOD □ BAD □

Good. Leaving a dim light on won't hurt him, and it may help him over a difficult time. He has some reason for being afraid, even if you don't know what it is. So, assure him that you care, by leaving his door ajar so some light gets in or by letting him have a light when he has to be alone. When he gets over being afraid, he won't need the light anymore. In the meantime, it's a little thing that can mean a great deal to him.

The emotional world of children is explored more fully in the booklet, "Your Child's Emotional Health." To get your copy, send 25 cents and your name and address, in care of The Post-Crescent.

Who is more dominant? Working wife — Homebody

It is the homebody who is more frequently dominant than the working wife, according to a recent study by two male sociologists. The man on the street often believes that when a wife works it makes her more bossy in her home. There are some hen-pecked husbands, of course. But they are not that way because of their wives' bossiness, but because they are themselves ineffectual. Working wives may feel more secure and on an equal base with their husbands, and so do not have to be dominant.

Mrs. Kennedy Returns to U. S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy returned home Sunday after a 23-day trip to Southeast Asia and Italy.

She arrived by plane from Rome accompanied by Michael Forrester, New York attorney and son of the late Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal.

The former First Lady, smiling but appearing a bit tired, did not make any statement at Kennedy Airport. She was hatless and wearing a white miniskirt with a brown belt.

Mrs. Kennedy went to Cambodia to dedicate a street named for the late President Kennedy and to visit the ancient ruins of Angkor Wat.

Britons Again Must Battle to Save Nation

Pound Devaluation Hard at Home, Felt in Many Countries

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The devaluation of the pound sterling signals another great "Battle of Britain" and, as in previous military and economic wars, much of it will be fought with the sweat and tears of its ordinary citizens.

As in other wars also, the battle might involve many nations before it is won. And time will be a formidable adversary. Britain must act very fast to capitalize on its currency devaluation.

British workers are "now on their mettle," said Prime Minister Harold Wilson. They must make more goods to raise exports to earn money to pay their debts. And they must deny themselves the rewards of working harder.

For six straight years Britain has been unable to send more goods abroad than it imported, meaning it was living beyond its means. This diluted the relative value of its currency. Devaluation acknowledged this.

Dollar's Worth
This latest predicament of Britain deeply involves the United States, among many other nations. There are bound now to be suspicions that this country, which also has a balance of payments problem, might devalue the dollar.

Such rumors will be termed ridiculous by monetary officials, but they are far from being absurd. The economies of the world's trading powers are like threads in a fabric; the value of their currencies is in relation to each other.

Sunday's boost in the Federal Reserve lending rate was recognition of this fact: it was proof also that what affects the currency of one trading power—and Britain is the third most important—has immediate effects elsewhere.

In raising from 4 to 4.5 percent the price it charges banks to borrow, the Federal Reserve conceded that investment money could begin to flow from the United States to Britain, attracted by rate increases there.

Interest Pressures
This, then, is perhaps the most immediate effect of the British action, and it is a very important one, too, for after a delay of weeks or months it likely will exert pressure on all other interest rates.

Such an occurrence could create a serious situation in the U.S. economy. The housing industry, for example, is now recovering from a money shortage caused by higher interest rates elsewhere. Another shortage would be intolerable.

There is additional heat from Britain's war that also may be felt here soon. Since Britain's crisis results from an adverse balance of payments, there is likely to be more congressional pressure for the United States to lower its payments deficit.

The two situations are not entirely similar, for the United States does have a trade balance in its favor; that is, it ships more abroad than it imports. But it spends heavily for foreign aid and for a war in Vietnam.

Tax Increase
A possible result also is that the United States might make more attractive moves toward putting its entire economic house in order. This would mean more pressure than ever for a tax increase to help pay the government's bills.

There is another problem also for the United States in this devaluation, although it is being minimized in official statements. American companies now will find Britain a more formidable competitor and more critical buyer.

British exporters, for example, now will be able to sell their goods at a big discount. This will spur British sales but it may do nothing to spur overall demand. Britain's gain will be at the expense of competing nations.

Gradually, however, Britain's advantage may fade for in time the rising domestic prices that might result from devaluation could begin to push export prices higher again.

Race to be Swift
The battle, then, involves speed. Britain must lift its exports immediately if it is to take advantage of its competitive edge and pay its big international bills.

This is a large order, and at the same time Britain must also root out the causes of its failure to compete, among them, its old-fashioned management methods, its strikes, its antiquated factories.
